Always highly ranked in national polls of top cities in the country, Portland, Oregon offers residents a multitude of cultural and artistic events and festivals of all kinds, year-round; amateur and professional sports activities; friendly, clean and unique neighborhoods with diverse populations; efficient public transportation; high quality education for students of all ages; and some of the best outdoor recreation opportunities one can encounter. Mountains, rivers, forest, parks and other green spaces, lakes and more surround the metro area, and moderate temperatures allow outdoor enthusiasts to take advantage of the beautiful and varied terrain throughout the year. Cedar Hills is a unique and growing community just west of downtown.

KELLY REED, PT, OCS, COMT and AIMEE JACKSON, MSPT – CLINIC DIRECTORS

Kelly has been director of Cedar Hills Physical Therapy since 1994. She received her COMT (Certified Orthopedic Manual Therapist) from the North American Institute of Orthopedic Manual Therapy in 1994 and is an Orthopedic Certified Specialist (OCS). She received her Physical Therapy degree from Pacific University in 1983. Kelly specializes in lower extremity dysfunctions, biomechanical assessments related to running/sports injuries, custom molded orthotics, injury prevention, and Temporomandibular dysfunction (TMD). An outdoor enthusiast, Kelly loves to play - especially with her family.

Aimee specializes in TMD dysfunction and is certified in ASTYM™. Other areas of special interest include post surgical rehabilitation, spinal rehabilitation, and working with high school athletes. She has been co-director of Cedar Hills since 2003. She received her Master of Science Degree in Physical Therapy from Pacific University and her undergraduate degree in Exercise and Movement Science from University of Oregon. She has been a member of the APTA and an Oregon affiliate for over 10 years. She is currently a Level III trained manual therapist with the North American Institute of Orthopedic Manual Therapy. In her spare time she enjoys participating in sports and outdoor activities with her family.
